Adjourned quarter past 3 o'clock. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, MAY 14, 1812.

Subscriptions were opened on the first and second inst. to the loan of 11 millions of dollars authorised by the act of the 14th of March last, in conformity with the enclosed potice (A.) It was left optional with the banks which were disposed to subscribe, either to receive stock or to loan the money by spe-cial contract. The enclosed circular letters (B. C. D.) shew the instructions transmitted and the manner in which the proposals were made to the several banks. It was thought most eligible not to limit in any place the amount of subscriptions to any specific sum : for which reason the loan was kept open only two days, in order that the general result might be ascertained, and a reduction, if necessary, be made.

All the returns have now been received, and an abstract (E) is herewith transmitted. From these it appears that $6,118,900 were subscribed in those two days, viz. $ 4,190,000 by Banks, and $ 1,928,000 by individuals. This last sum is greater than the aggregate of all the loans at 6 per cent. ever before obtained by government from individuals in the U. States; and, considering the price of stocks, and various obstacles which at this time have impeded the subscriptions, the amount is as great as might have been expected within so short a period. The unsubscribed residue will now be apportioned among the several places according to the apparent demand in each, and subscriptions will be received or stock sold, until the sums thus respectively apportioned shall have been disposed of.

It is confidently believed that the amount which remains unsubscribed for will thus be filled as the money will be wanted for the public service. In order, however, to preven: the possibility of disappointment, and to remove doubts and erroneous expectations, I beg leave to submit, the propriety of authorising the issue of treasury notes on the following principles, viz :

1. Not to exceed in the whole the amount which may ultimately not he subscribed to the loan; that is to say, that the amount received on account of the loan and that of the treasury notes shall not together exceed 11 millions; which limits therefore the greatest possible amount of treasury notes to less than 4,900,000 dollars.

2. To bear an interest of 5 and 2-3 per cent. a year, equal to 1 and 1-2 cents per day on a one hundred dollar note.

3. To become payable by the treasury one year after the date of their respective issues. 4. To be in the meanwhile receivable in payment of all duties, taxes, or debts due to PHILADELPHIA, MAY 20. From Laguira we learn, that after the vioshock of an earthquake on the 26th of March, which destroyed a great part of that town, &c. as mentioned in former papers they had frequent small shocks till the 16th of A. pril, when they experienced a very severe one which destroyed the few remaining buildings and destroyed several hundred persons. This shock was so severe, that not a single house or building was left in the whole town. This shock is said to have done considerable damage at Caraccas, and other parts of the country. The inhabitants of Laguira who are left alive, have, with the concurrence of government, fixed on a scite to rebuild a new city, a small distance to the southward of the old one.
